the 1990s, the number of people with a mental health problem has increased by 50% (Mental Health Foundation, 2000). The prevalence of mental health problems in the United Kingdom is estimated to be 10% (Mental Health Foundation, 2000).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of people with mental health problems. The Department of Health (2000) has published a strategy for mental health care, which aims to improve the lives of people with mental health problems. The strategy is based on the following principles:

- People with mental health problems should be treated as individuals, with their own needs and wishes.
- People with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to participate in decisions about their care.
- People with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to live in the community.
- People with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to work and study.

The strategy also aims to improve the lives of people with mental health problems by:

- Improving the quality of care.
- Improving the access to care.
- Improving the support for carers.
- Improving the support for people with mental health problems.

The strategy is a framework for action, which will be implemented through a series of measures. The measures will be implemented by the following bodies:

- The Department of Health.
- The local authorities.
- The health service.
- The voluntary sector.
